VALENTINE'S CRAFT DAY

FEELING CREATIVE? Itching to make something? Have you started a crochet or knitting project that's just gathering dust?

Join your fellow crafty folk on Valentine's Day for a few hours of doing and making. Bring a project of your own, or try one of ours! Join Danby Community and Park on Saturday, February 14, 2026, 1-4pm, in the Fellowship Hall of Danby's Community Church.

There will be something for everyone (and not all of it will involve yarn!) so if you're tired of Netflix and snow, and want to get cozy and crafty, then won't you join us?

No RSVP needed—just show up! Refreshments will be provided. All ages welcome.

Thanks, once again, to the Church for generously sharing its space.

DANBY POTLUCK / FUNDRAISER V2

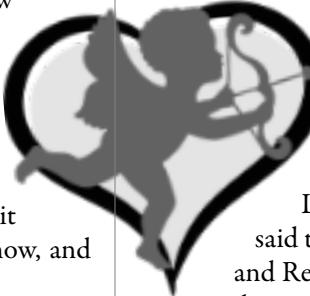

Hello! The Danby Resilience Community's (DRC) first potluck/fundraiser in December was such a success that we decided to host another.

Around 40 people attended, great food was shared, deep conversations were had, and we raised more than $1,400 for the Danby Food Pantry.

The next gathering is Saturday February 28, 6-8pm, in Danby's Community Church. Funds raised will go to Healthy Food For All's program that donates CSA shares to low income families.

All are welcome, bring your good company and feel free to bring a dish to share with your neighbors. Bringing your own place settings is encouraged. Please bring take away container. We will be accepting cash or check donations to support HFFA. Let's break bread together!

DRC continues to meet most Saturdays, 1-3pm at Danby Food & Drink. all are welcome to join us.

LOVING FEBRUARY

WHY DO WE CELEBRATE love in the midst of cold, dark winter? Why all of those bright red and pink colors when there's not a freshly grown flower to be found? Roses bloom in June, and yet here they are in mid-winter. It seems a little crazy, and yet it's a beloved holiday.

It all seems to go back to the Fifth Century, when the Catholic church attempted to tame a frenzied pagan fertility celebration.

Lupercalia, perhaps related to the wolf who was said to have nursed the founders of Rome, Romulus and Remus, was celebrated at the Ides of February, or February 15. This festival was dedicated to Faunus, the Roman god of agriculture. It was still popular when Rome fell, hundreds of years later. So an early Pope tried a rebrand it, declaring February 14 to be "St. Valentine's Day."

So who was this early Saint Valentine? As it happens, there were several Valentines, all martyrs for the faith but each with their own story and mythology. One was accused of trying to free Christian captives of the Roman Emperor. Another was a priest who married soldiers to their sweethearts, in violation of the Emperor's decree that all soldiers should remain single.

By the Middle Ages and the time of Chaucer there was a common folk belief that St. Valentine's Day, February 14, was the beginning of mating season for birds, Whan every foul cometh ther to choose his mate. It seems that romance and "building a family" was never far from the heart of this date in European custom. By the 1400s, during the age of Chivalry and Romance, it became more common for lovers (who could write, or could afford for someone to write for them) to send each other written "Valentine notes."

Celebrating Valentine's Day gradually grew as a custom in many countries of Europe (notably France and the Britain) and in North and Central America. By the middle of the

POWER LINE COMPARISON

Transmission line towers are much larger than Distribution line poles.

An infrastructure upgrade to a transmission line thru Danby will result in much taller towers. Power outages within Danby are not likely to be affected.

See article on page 5.

DANBY NEWS NOTES

Submission Guidelines: Before submitting an item for the Danby News, please have a look at the Submission Guidelines. You can request them by Email from the editor at danbynews@danbycc.org or find them at danbyny.org/DanbyNews. If you're thinking of sending something for publication in the Danby News, there's two documents to read: the Guidelines and the Submission Guidelines at the same web location.

You'll learn what is, and isn't acceptable material for publication. If it's acceptable, we'll make an effort to include it; generally, we print everything we receive! You'll find hints about how to prepare a submission. Following these guidelines makes the editing and layout easier.

COOKING FOR INDULGENCE

WHY IS IT that the shortest month of the year always feels like the longest one? Maybe it's because of all the special days in the month and the special foods for each one. Valentine's Day? Super Bowl Sunday? Chinese New Year?

There's also National Homemade Soup Day on February 4, right around (but surely unrelated to) Groundhog Day.

February foods seem to be more about cooking for Indulgence rather than cooking for Abundance. Maybe they're all about the kind of resilience that is also resistance against the cold, dark lingering nights of winter.

This month, my mind turns to comfort food. Something as simple (or as complex, depending on your mood) as Mac and Cheese or a Grilled Cheese sandwich. Perfect to go with that pot of homemade soup on the Fourth or any day of the month. Warm, oozing cheese with bread or pasta. Savory fats to chase away the winter chill.

Let's go with Mac and Cheese. And, please, not that stuff in a box with some vaguely cheesy-smelling powder (among others, Walmart has Great Value Thick and Creamy Mac and Cheese, 58 cents per box). Nope, now's the time to go exploring those recipes on the web that say, "Best Mac and Cheese." The ones with words like, "Outrageously cheesy", "Ultra Creamy", or "Deliciously Rich And Gooey."

The secret to great Mac and Cheese is grating your own cheese, fresh from a block into the bowl and gently blending it into a roux (combine with butter, flour, and milk). You can go with cheddar (the 2-lb block at Wegman's is less expensive than Walmart's house brand!), gouda, or gruyère but the best is probably a blend of all three. Flavor boosters like mustard or paprika can be a lovely addition. Add a crunchy topping of panko bread crumbs—or even the crumbly bits from the bottom of your chip bags from the Super Bowl.

Your pasta choice is like a playground. The traditional shape is hollow elbows but have fun: cavatappi (hollow helixes), zucchini (little pumpkins), wagon-wheelies, rotini and fusilli (spirals), ditalini, ziti, and penne (tubes), radiatori (plungers), and amelli (better known as spaghetti-os).

We could give you a recipe but or you can find one on the web (which is what we'd do). Or a blend of the recipes you find. Indulge and enjoy—perfect for Groundhog's, Valentine's, and Super Bowl Sunday.

Even Presidents eat (Big) Mac and Cheese.  (pg)

WANT TO SAVE A WHITE ELEPHANT?

DANBY RESIDENTS, ESPECIALLY those living near Gunderman Road, may remember the big fuss about the old "Angelheart Barn" that dominated the Town's attention during the 2010s.

In short, a huge commercial structure, unused for many years, was proposed as, at first, a "business incubator" campus. After months and months of Town Board and Planning Board meetings, the property was rezoned from a factory and warehouse to a health-related use.

The project never materialized, the central figure was convicted of fraud, and the barn, well, the barn is still there and it's on the market. The asking price is $375,000, well below its appraised value of $600,000.

Two factoids stand out: the zoning and the current owner.

The property is currently in Danby's "Rural 2" zone which allows residences and agriculture without review, along with certain other activities after Planning Board review...with one of the goals being "large lot" uses. There is, or was, a Special Permit issued for the property, allowing the operation of an Autism Clinic. With such limitations, it's not unreasonable to conclude that a 21,600 sq.ft. commercial structure on 2.6 acres...is going to be a tough sell. This might explain why the restrictions aren't mentioned in the online real estate listing.

A web search for information about the current owner, "WBL SPE III, LLC," leads to some interesting pages. Its full name is World Business Lenders. It lost a court case when the judge agreed that charging 49.9% annual interest is prohibited under both civil and criminal laws of New York. The Better Business Bureau does not accredit WBL, rates it, "C," and one commenter stated, "...they are going to end up closing and reopening under another name." In all fairness, the "III" incarnation of this business might have a better reputation.  (tc)

The fact that an opinion has been widely held is no evidence whatever that it is not utterly absurd; indeed in view of the silliness of the majority of mankind, a widespread belief is more likely to be foolish than sensible.

WD FIRE DEPARTMENT UPDATE

AS WINTER WEATHER SETTLES IN, the West Danby Fire Department would like to share a few seasonal safety reminders with the community.

With increased use of heating equipment, please remember to check that smoke and carbon monoxide alarms are working properly, keep space heaters at least three feet from anything that can burn, and have chimneys and heating systems inspected as needed. These simple steps can help prevent winter-related emergencies.

Winter conditions can also make emergency access more difficult. We ask residents to help by keeping driveways and walkways clear of snow and ice and ensuring house numbers are visible from the road.

We would also like to recognize our 2026 Officers:

Chief: Robert McCray
 1st Ass't Chief: Ken VanEtten
 2nd Ass't Chief: Scott Wendt
 3rd Ass't Chief: Samantha VanEtten
 Lieutenant / EMS Director: .. Shawn Wendt

Our staff Officers include John VanEtten (President), Howard VanEtten (VP), Laura Barton (Secretary), Shawn Wendt (Treasurer), and Marrell Cortright (Deputy Secretary/Treasurer).

The department is always looking for new volunteers. Anyone interested in firefighting, EMS, or support roles can eMail [wdchief@danbyfiristrict.org], message us on Facebook, or attend a meeting on the second Monday of each month, 7pm in the WD Fire Station 47, Sylvan Drive.

Thank you for your continued support, and we wish everyone a safe and warm winter season.

18th century, it was common for friends and lovers of all social classes to exchange small gifts of affection with their handwritten notes. By 1900, mass-printed greeting cards began to replace personal letters.

According to Hallmark, more than 145 million Valentine's Day cards were sent in 2009, not counting the bulk-packaged kid's valentines for classrooms. Valentine's Day is the second largest card-sending holiday of the year, right behind Christmas.

Are as many people giving little love-note bits of paper in this age of electronic communication and AI? Maybe. There's something awfully sweet about those notes that say, "You are my Valentine."

WHY IS THE DANBY NEWS LIKE PUBLIC RADIO?

THE DANBY NEWS is the place to go in Danby. But, why is it like Public Radio? In a nutshell, neither one is beholden to partisan government interference.

① Both the DN and Public Radio present information that supplements and, sometimes, clarifies official, sanitized verbiage in expensive, taxpayer-funded publications.

② The choice to defund both the DN and Public Radio was not budget-related. Sometimes, public officials feel threatened by distribution of a different perspective. Danby now budgets about twice as much for its house organ than it formerly paid for the DN. Danby's powers have said, on the record, that they expected the DN to shut down.

③ Both the DN and Public Radio depend on the public to keep an independent voice alive.

Help us cover the cost of your issues! It'd be great if every Danby-ite could afford a subscription ($15 or more per household). Not everyone can...or does. Those who can offer larger, lifeline contributions help provide coverage for everyone else.

Please make checks payable to Danby Community and Park, note Danby News in the memo, and mail to P.O.Box 6886, Ithaca, NY 14851-6886.

PANCAKES IN CENTRAL DANBY

WINTER IS HERE and the Pancakes are hot! Drive-thru or stop in for a plate of Pancakes, French Toast, Sausage, Scrambled Eggs, and Homefries, all for $12.

Join us Sunday, February 15, 8-11am. at the Danby Volunteer Fire Company, 1780 Danby Road. Cash, Card, Check, Venmo, and Apple Pay are accepted. We'll be doing this again on March 15.

Proceeds to upgrade the equipment we use for cases of difficulty breathing and for rope rescue. What better way to relax after Valentine's Day!

PIPING ELECTRONS TO YOUR HOME

DANBY'S TOWN BOARD—and a few members of the public—was recently treated to a presentation by representatives of NYSEG, the utility company serving Danby. A planned FLAIR upgrade to a transmission line running, via Danby, from Montour Falls to Coddington Road, [fingerlakesareareliability.com], will replace existing wooden H-frames with steel monopoles in northwest Danby, running east-west across Town Line, West King, Comfort, and Danby Roads. The new poles will be almost twice as tall but thinner. The power flow will be more than 2.5x greater.

Danby will not benefit directly from this project, except for a few customers served from Coddington Road.

Only adjacent property owners will be intimately impacted with changes to visual appearance and by proximity effects, if any, due to electromagnetic fields. The NYSEG representatives compared the electromagnetic effect to small kitchen appliances.

Other residents may be able to see the changes from a distance. Project construction is estimated to begin in 2027 and be completed in 2029.

Varieties of power lines

- Transmission lines are large, even huge, towers. The wires carry from 60,000 volts to 500,000 volts. They are mostly overhead and require pathways cleared of trees and branches. Transmission lines often terminate at substations.
- Distribution lines carry electricity, often at about 12,500 volts, from substations to customer's homes and businesses. Distribution lines are often overhead—on the familiar wooden poles—but are sometimes underground. Overhead distribution lines are the ones that most often experience outages related to trees and vegetation.
- Customer access lines run from “the street” into customer premises. They can be either overhead (attached to roofs, etc.) or underground (entering the premises in a basement).

Effect on electric service reliability

Danby has been affected by an increasing number of outages. Transmission lines are generally not the problem (when they fail, thousands of customers are affected). It's our distribution lines. According to County Legislator Irene Weiser, our distribution system needs a lot of main-

TCAT ROUTE 65 UPDATE: DANBY, DOWNTOWN, CORNELL

IN RESPONSE TO A SURVEY I conducted during the fall of 2025, TCAT has changed the Route 65 schedule:

- An inbound bus has been added, leaving Hillview Terrace on South Danby Road at 7:42am, arrives at Green Street at 8:04am. This bus continues as Route 30, which goes through central Cornell campus and onto the Ithaca Mall.
- An outbound bus has been extended so that it leaves the Vet School at 5:48pm and arrives at Hillview Terrace at 6:22pm.

Thanks to the TCAT scheduling team for making these changes!

• (ah)

tenance upgrades—everything from trees that need trimming to old utility poles whose bases or cross bars are rotting.

Weather- or tree-related failures may continue, especially when overhead lines run through forested areas. For example, Lieb and Southern Comfort Roads have seen multiple failures during the last two years, all traceable to a distribution line that runs through the woods, parallel to Lieb Road. When a tree falls, forestry workers have to be imported; it can be days before the electric line crews can begin repair.

If the Lieb Road line were underground, this outages would be unlikely. Ironically, once the line reaches Comfort Road it continues underground for more than a mile into the Southern Comfort fairy-tale woods...because the property owner would not allow an overhead line!

Installation of underground distribution lines is more expensive than overhead (sources cite 4 to 14 times more) but this cost can be balanced by avoiding repetitive weather and tree repairs. For sure, customers think uninterrupted service is priceless!

On your property, the cost of burying your utility lines is minimal compared to other construction. Extra benefit: not staring at overhead wires on your property!

In the meantime, Weiser says, “...it's gonna take a while. I know it's not the news anyone wants to hear.” • (tc)

REMINISCING #41

From Danby Town Talk #289, February 16, 2012:

JACOB GELBER, a senior at the New Roots Charter School, who resides in Ithaca and Newfield, wrote an award-winning essay honoring the life and legacy of Martin Luther King Jr. The sponsor of the contest, Don Austin, Ithaca College's assistant director of community service and leadership development, said, "The essay was creative and full of ideas for how we can redefine greatness and how we will forge a better world for future generations." Jacob, who was an avid soccer player and enjoyed boxing and playing Scrabble in his spare time, was to be part of New Roots' first graduating class in June 2012. He was is considering a career as either a fire-fighter or physical therapist. (Note: I had started to cover stories from Newfield, also).

American Legion Post #221 was serving up a fish fry dinner on February 17. Longview Senior Living would be having a booth at the Chili Cook Off on the Ithaca Commons. It had participated since 2006 with recipes such as flank steak and chorizo chili, portabella and pine nut chili, and six-mushroom cashew veggie chili. The Longview dining staff developed the recipe and made the chili.

Warmer temperatures and lack of snow in parts of North America set the stage for what could be a most intriguing 15th Annual Great Backyard Bird Count, happening February 17-20. Anyone could participate in the free event and no registration was required. I thought this was such a fun family project!

The Finger Lakes Finns gathered in the Newfield Fire Hall for a dish-to-pass dinner and meeting, after which Ithaca fiddle players would perform.

I sent out congratulations to Sharon and Harry Gold on their 50th anniversary.

Happy Valentine's Day on February 14 to everyone. It is also my birthday, and I wish I could say I am turning 39, but that would be far from the truth!

EYES ON STUFF IN THE SKY

ONE DAY RECENTLY, it was cold and dark. The sky was full of stars, with planes and satellites flying over.

Standing at the window, I watched the sky for about five minutes and something weird happened. I won't go into the details, but I wondered what one does if one feels what one is seeing is weird enough to merit reporting. So I called the Tompkins County airport and asked.

ONLINE PROPERTY FRAUD ALERTS

THE WORLD IS A DANGEROUS PLACE. Even the internet has its bad actors and you also have to watch your property records. Wait, what, your property records?

The Tompkins County Clerk's Office has recently implemented a new online records search platform, one that includes a fraud alert feature.

Searching for property records in Tompkins County usually involves two departments: Assessment and the County Clerk.

Easily readable information about a property (yours, or anyone's) is usually found via the Assessment Department, either online (the URL is too long to reproduce but you can google "tompkins assessment") or in person. The backing documents (deeds, etc.), however, can be found via the Clerk's office. Online, try [\[tompkins.ny.publicsearch.us\]](http://tompkins.ny.publicsearch.us).

For example, at the Clerk's search site, enter "Town of Danby" (the quotes will narrow the results considerably!). Click on the "Recorded Date" column header—twice—to put the most recent documents first. Voila! It takes a moment to learn the classification system, so you can interpret the results. Item 2025-08329, for example, is the demolition order issued by the Town on the owner of the derelict structure next to Town Hall. Item 2024-01248 is a mortgage between a resident and the Town, probably related to a CDBG grant for housing improvement.

All wonderful, but what about the fraud feature?

Property Fraud Alert is a free notification service that alerts users if a document is recorded in the Tompkins County Clerk's Office under their name or property. The Clerk's Office must record documents as presented and cannot verify their legitimacy. With today's increasingly sophisticated fraud schemes, an early warning about new documents related to your property can be valuable.

The County Clerk's web site contains more information and a sign-up procedure (again, URL too long to reproduce). You can register multiple names and properties and choose to receive alerts by eMail or phone.  (tc)

I was directed to the Rochester Flight Standards District Office (FSDO), a part of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). The woman I spoke to said, yes, they are the right office to call for weird things in the sky. She suggested that one try to take a photo or video of what one is seeing. Here's the phone number if you ever need it: 585.436.3880.  (rr)

COMMUNITY LIBRARY

MEET ONE of our library's authors: James Grant.

Grant, best known by his pen name, Lee Child, is a British author who writes thriller novels. There are dozens of his Jack Reacher novel series, two movies, and a television series.

Jack Reacher is a former military police Major, wandering the U.S., taking odd jobs, and becoming involved in mysteries. Maybe you've seen the movies or the Netflix series and liked them? Here's your chance to get more of Jack Reacher and his escapades. We have 22 books by Lee Child to choose from. Plenty to keep you busy! ☺ (cp)

FREE CHILDBIRTH EDUCATION CLASS

MOMS PLUS+ is a Tompkins County Whole Health program, open to County residents. It offers a childbirth education class on three Wednesdays, February 4, 11, and 18, 6-8:30pm, in the Cayuga Medical Center's "Birthplace", 101 Dates Drive, Ithaca.

It is geared toward those with a due date in March or April and will cover the following topics:

- Labor and delivery
- Relaxation techniques
- Medication Options
- Creating your birth plan
- Newborn care
- Breastfeeding

One support person may attend with the pregnant person. Space is limited; please call 607.274.6604. For more information, google "tompkins moms plus". ☺

SENIORS UPDATE

THE NEXT MEETING of the Danby Seniors will be on Thursday, February 5, 2026, at Noon in Danby's Community Church.

Please bring a generous dish to share and a serving spoon. Please put your name on all your serving dishes. Also, bring your own table service. Coffee and Lemonade will be provided.

Entertainment following this meeting will be Jilissa Vel-lake, vocalist. The performance will begin about 1:15 in the Sanctuary.

Next month's meeting will be Thursday, March 5. ☺ (pp)

BLACK HISTORY MONTH

I NEVER HEARD of Phyllis Wheatley until January, when the US Postal Service announced its new stamp in her honor. She was born c.1753 in Africa, brought to America as a slave, and died as a free person in 1784.

Importantly, she was the first African American to publish a book. Phillis' story got me to thinking about the earliest African Americans in Danby. I did some digging. This is what I found.

The 1820 Danby census list includes six slaves and six free blacks. Other sources describe eight to ten blacks but do not indicate whether they were free or slaves.

Carol Kammen, the former Tompkins County historian, published a few names in the Ithaca Journal:

- Elsie Brooks, 1811 in Danby. Emancipated 1827.
- One slave by the name of Black Ann.
- Lement Duplex (a.k.a. Dupliss), wife of Prince Duplex. Prince came from Connecticut.

Lement Duplex was most likely the first free African American woman to settle on land that became part of Tompkins County, though she arrived in 1811; six years before the county was created. There is even a headstone for Lement in Danby's Rural Cemetery.

Aside from the Duplexes, little is known about early Black people in Danby—or elsewhere for that matter. Some brief stories get handed down in families but, basically, their personal stories constitute an unfortunate hole in our history. Perhaps more writings like Phyllis Wheatley's will be found and we can learn more. ☺ (mb)
